Renewal Assessment Form 2023-24

To ensure that Environmental Farm Plans (EFP) that have been completed are up-to-date and accurately reflect the environmental risks currently on the farm/ranch, you are expected to renew your EFP's at least once every five years or as changes are made on your farm operation that could impact your environmental risk. An example of a change to your operation could be a 20% change in livestock numbers, acreage and/or a change in farm/ranch enterprise. It is a good management practice to regularly review your EFP and reassess any environmental risks associated with your farming/ranching operation.

In order for your farming operation to be eligible for Beneficial Management Practices (BMP) funding under Canadian Agricultural Partnership, you must have a current EFP. The renewal of an EFP, does not reset the funding cap associated with your farming operation, but does allow access to unused funding within the cap.

The Renewal Assessment Form must be completed and an IAF Planning Advisor will review the Renewal Assessment Form and work with you to reassess any environmental risks that may have developed since your original EFP was completed.

Please ensure that a copy of your original EFP Statement of Completion and your original and new completed Planning Workbooks are reviewed with this Renewal Assessment Form by the Planning Advisor.
